who were present. Makes an Address.

The cardinal presented to the President a felicitous address, in which he referred in n most kindly way to the United States and its people. He said in part:

"This is the third time that I behold America-with admiration for the rapid and marvelous progress of this republic Hence I regard myself most highly honored in presenting my cordial homage to your excellency, as also it was my happy privi-lege to do with two others of your predecessors. From the very first day of my coming was able to contend that the Catholic Church, in the present condition of humanity, has no place where she can display better her imperishable vitality than in the United States of America. Your Constituprosperity-political, and civil—which all the world regards with amazement. Under the guarantees of this Constitution the Catholic Church has the right to have no fear either for her future or for her liberty. Here come those from every nation who are in search of new life and civilization; while at the same time here the church displays her harmonious universality, embracing all peoples, co-operating for the real well-being of all in the union of authority and liberty. The the union of authority and liberty. The Catholic Church is, by nature, conservative and progressive. She stands immovable upon true and righteous morality. She goes down the ages with the nations, intent upon the cause of civilization, which only is the true one when it goes forward by the straight path, making no truce either the straight path, making no truce either with license or with tyranny.

"I trust, Mr. President, that aithough not charged with an official mission, I a member of the sacred college, and by reason of my office living near the apostolic see, may extend to you the sincere expression of my highest esteem and of a grateful heart. Your courteous thoughtfulness will not be forgotten for many a year when you took such pains to be informed concerning the last days of the immortal Leo XIII. Your telegram of condolence to the sacred college while it was gathered in conclave for the election of the new pontiff gave us incomparable satisfaction.

"You gave an example of the highest wisdom and equity in those things which concerned both your government and religion in the Philippine Islands. And because of this I saw a sweet smile on the venerable countenance of the already dying pontiff, who, laden with years, and at the height of his glory, gave up the government of the church militant blessing the American republic.

The President replied, in part, as follows: "Cardinal Satolli: It is a pleasure to me to welcome so distinguished a visitor. I thank you most heartily for your kind words about the United States, and in return I greet you in my capacity as chief executive of a government which has as its oot principle the doctrine of treating with impartial justice all men, without regard to creed or birthplace. 1: gives me pleasure welcome you."

Before going to the White House Cardinal Satolli was entertained at the papal lega-tion at luncheon by Dr. Marchetti, auditor, and Rev. Father Stickney, secretary of the legation. Archbishop Ireland was among those present to meet the cardinal, and the party included Mgr. O'Connell, rector of the Catholic University; Rev. Father Mullen of Georgetown University, Rev. E. X. Fink, S. J., pastor of St. Aloysius' and president of Gonzaga College; Rev. Charles Warren J., pastor of St. Aloysius' and president of Gonzaga College; Rev. Charles Warren Currier, pastor of St. Mary's Church; Rev. W. S. Caughy, pastor of St. Stephen's Church; Rev. Father Sctolli, cousin of the cardinal; Rev. Father Marucchi, Rev. Father Grontini, secretary to the cardinal; Rev. Father Spencely of the Catholic University, Rev. Father Papi of Woodstock College and Rev. Father George Dougherty, secretary to Mgr. # Services Over the Remains of a Noted Vocalist.

Few people in this city are better known to the music-loving population, and especially to the older generation, than was the ate Charles H. Read, who died in Providence Hospital Monday, and was buried from St. Paul's Episcopal Church yesterday. Dr. Harding, one of Mr. Read's best friends, conducted the simple service according to the Episcopal faith, assisted by the Rev. G. F. Bratenahl, rector of St. Alban's parish.

Mr. Read was among the best of vocalists in his day, and will be well and affectionately remembered as the basso for many years in Epiphany Church at the time when Epiphany engaged only the best artists. In addition to his church work, Mr. Read was a great social favorite when in his prime. His voice was of the finest quality, and up to last summer he rendered most efficient service in St. Paul's choir.

At his funeral yesterday Mr. E. T. Winchester, by whom he was much admired, had charge of the music. Mr. Read's fa-vorite hymns were sung by Miss Ethel Holtzciaw, soprano; Mrs. Bessie B. Mercer, Holtzciaw, soprano; Mrs. Bessie B. Mercer, contralto; Mr. W. J. Caulfield, tenor, and Dr. A. B. Mitchell, basso, and included "Weary of Earth," "Abide With Me" and "Lead, Kindly Light." Almost the last solo Mr. Read ever sang was Ambrose's beautiful "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." This was sung yesterday by Miss Holtzclaw as he was carried to his last resting place.

hands, so sore that when I would put them in water the pain would very nearly set me crazy, the skin would peel off and the flesh would get hard and break. There would be blood flowing from at least fifty places on each hand. Words could never tell the suffering I endured for three years. I tried everything that I was told to use for fully three years, but could get so relief. I tried at least eight different doctors; but none of them seemed to do me any good, as my hands were as had when I got through doctoring as when I first began. I also tried many remedies, but none of them ever did me one cent's worth of good. I was discouraged and heart sore. I would feel so bad mornings when I got up to think I had to go to work and stand the pain for ten hours, and I often felt like giving up my position. Before I started to work mornings I would have to wrap every finger up separately, so as to try and keep them soft and then wear gloves over the rags to keep the grease from getting on my work. At night I would have to wear gloves in bed. In fact, I had to wear gloves all the time. But thanks to Cuticura, the greatest of all great skin cures. After doctoring for three years and spending much money a 50c. box of Cuticura Ointment ended all my sufferings.
